Introduction

This project provides information on the tools that have been developed in the context of Action 2016.29 Catalogue of Services of the ISA² Programme. These solutions are open-source tools that facilitate creating, validating, harvesting and exchanging public service descriptions that comply with the CPSV-AP. The tools are fully reusable and easily adaptable to, for example, other data models, business contexts, etc.

A large number of public service catalogues and e-Government portals of various types have been implemented throughout Europe. However, the development of these catalogues has not, in many cases, been harmonised, neither within national borders nor at the European level. This lack of harmonisation make it challenging to exchange information between public administrations and to have an integrated view of the public services offered or provided within a specific country or region.

The Catalogue of Services Action has three main outputs that facilitate the creation and exchange of public service
